SUPERSIZE YOUR SUPER BOWL PARTY

While tens of thousands pour into New Jersey to tie up the Lincoln Tunnel even more than usual, you've got a better idea in mind.

Like staying home and hosting the ultimate high-end Super Bowl party instead.

We've got your three key big game plays called. Now all you need to do is execute.

Big Food: Old Town Pour House Super Bowl Catering
There's got to be a better way than warm Miller Lites and soggy BW3 wings. There is: this Super Bowl catering menu of black truffle mac 'n' cheese, jumbo crab fondue, and Maine lobster rolls. Plus chili packed with smoked brisket burnt ends and New York strip steak doused in New Holland Dragon's Milk Stout. Game on.
8 Oak Brook Center, Oak Brook (630-601-1440). Order by noon Thu Jan 30.

Big Drinks: Bartend Chicago
They're young. They're fun. And they know how to make a stiff drink. What else do you want in a bartender? These in-demand local mixologists will keep your guests entertained when Bruno Mars fails to. They're also offering special discounted rates for Super Bowl parties, so you can't really afford not to do it.

Big Screen: GoVision
Anyone can rent a big screen. But a party this epic needs something bigger: like a jumbotron. Like the ones offered by the same company used for the Blackhawks parade and President Obama's Grant Park celebration. They also offer 9x12-ft mobile LEDs for backyard tailgating. Just be sure to invite the neighbors.
